

Permanent Buildings Now Being Erected

SUBSTANTIAL STRUCTURES NEW STORES ON MAIN STREET

The past week has seen quite a change from the fire-wrecked condition of the five town blocks of devastation since the big conflagration, and groups of men have worked practically night and day to make a clean-up of most of the debris which was left in the path of the visitation of Sunday, July 21st last.

Several of the permanent buildings have been started upon, and basements and foundations are going in at quite a pace. McCleod and Son have commenced the work for their new store which will stand immediately north of the theatre. This will be of either interlocking hollow tile or of hollow concrete wall construction and is to be some 30 by 80 feet in area.

The semi-detached building which will be occupied by H. Macgregor and Hefferman & Son is taking shape rapidly, the foundations all being completed and the floor laid for the billiard hall portion, while the hollow tile for the walls is being unloaded. The erection will have a solid brick front for both stores with large plate glass windows.

TO OUR CITIZENS

Owing to the continued high winds, the Council of the Town of Wainwright request all persons having papers and rubbish to burn to carefully watch these fires until satisfied that everything is safe. This is for the safety of all.

CHURCH AT JASPER IS SOLDIER'S MONUMENT

Unique among the churches of Canada is the little church of St. Mary and St. George of Jasper, which was consecrated recently by the Bishop of Edmonton. The building a beautiful structure of stone and stucco with a tiled roof was built at a cost of $17,000 from a design by A. M. Macdonald of Edmonton, and is a gift to the parish from a lady in England, who wishes her name to remain anonymous. It was presented in memory of her son who was killed in war, and beneath the corner stone which was laid last year by His Excellency The Governor-General lies the testament which was found on the young man's body when he was carried out of "No Man's Land." The furnishings and fittings of the church were also the gift of the unknown donor, while the bell was presented by Viscount Willingdon.

ADMIRAL OILS GOING STILL FARTHER DOWN

ARE REMOVING BIG LINER FROM UNSATISFACTORY OIL SAND

Although the oil sand which was reached at the site of the Admiral well west of town gave great promise it was considered unsatisfactory and the company have decided to remove the big liner, and continue on down to a greater depth. Messrs Maxwell and Boggs are determined to give the site the best possible cost obtainable and the gigantic machinery installed there is capable of going down to hitherto undreamed of depths in the hope of striking the real big producing pool which it geologically assured must underlie this territory.

Work is still being continued under the supervision of Mr. Tom Sugars on the wells north of town, and we are informed that it is the intention of the directors to start at the site of the Dome holdings within a short time.

The sand which is still coming in with the oil flow at the Wainwells No. 4 well is still causing trouble although it is hoped to eventually overcome this difficulty, and special pumps are being tried out on this.

Bethwain is now working three towers, and their casing has been delivered to the site. The electric light as derricks of this and other companies form quite a landmark for the district through the darker hours.

The Alma Meat Market also are making a start on their new store, which will be of the same type structure. This building is to have a full sized basement, which will give excellent storage accommodation, and the store is to be fitted with the most modern of meat shop appliances such as refrigerators and so forth. The building will be 25 by 40 feet with flat roof of asbestos.

The new store for the A. Savers business is well under way, the basement being in and the walls now rising rapidly. This is of hollow wall concrete construction, and is on the east side of Main street.

The basement is now ready for the O. Hannah business, and work is to start as soon as possible upon this erection upon the old site at the corner of Second avenue. Within a few days also the new Westburn Hardware will be started upon at the new store site next the Royal bank on Main street.

We understand that Messrs Snyder and Lally, who contemplate building jointly a modern fire-proof structure on their old site have not yet quite decided as to the size of this, but in all probability hollow tile will be used for the walls, and a 2-story structure will be erected in the near future.

When interviewed on the matter a number of other merchants state that they are considering the use of brick and tile for their new store buildings among these ready for the V. Washburn, A. Armstrong and W. Clark, and in this way the business blocks will be built up again with the most fire-resistant materials possible. In regard to the re-building of the hotels, a rumor was current in town last week end, is also planning to build a hotel at the corner of Main and First. This would be a fire-class hotel erection with possibly sixty rooms, and would without doubt add greatly to the entrance appearance of our town, as well as make a much more attractive Main street.

The project is one which the residents fall to interest, our business men with such a block right facing the town big depot the travelling public would receive such an impression of our town as never prevailed before.

Last week also saw the arrival in town of Mr. Macdonald, provincial architect, and after looking things over and reporting back to the provincial authorities it has been decided that the new liquor vendor's store is to be of solid construction, this to be built immediately south of the new Star office on Main street. With regard to the quarters for the provincial officers of the A.P.P. we learn that a deal has now been completed where by the residence for the sergeant is to be erected on the old site at the corner of King and Third, while the barracks accommodation will be upon the same property, the government having decided to buy the two lots at that location.

Although many others of our business men are planning to build their permanent stores, nothing definite is being given out for publication and interested parties will have to chronicle these activities.

This week, too, Dr. Middlemas has taken out the permit for a splendid new drug store and office building to be erected on his Main street property. This will be 25 by 50 feet, of fireproof construction, with a brick and plate glass front addition. Work started on this project on Tuesday morning.

IMPORTANT C.N.R. CHANGES

The appointment of a vice-president in charge of the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways, with headquarters in Winnipeg, was the outstanding feature of a number of important changes in the operating department personnel of the company announced to take place on August 1st. Three of the chief officers concerned are shown in the photograph. In the centre is A. B. Warren, formerly General Manager of the Central Region, who becomes Vice-President of the Western Region. On the right is W. A. Kingsland, formerly General Manager of the Western Region, who becomes General Manager of the Central Region, and on the left is A. A. Tisdale, formerly assistant to the General Manager of the Western Region, who becomes General Manager.

NO CHAUTAUQUA FOR THIS SEASON

Through the kindness of the management, the Chautauqua contract which had been signed up for 1929 has been cancelled for this year owing to the big set-back which the town and district has experienced. The contract has now been made to read for the season of 1930, and the original backers of the project have undertaken the now contract for next year's show which will be brought here in the fall of 1930.

FABYAN PETE GETS NEW TANKS & LINES

NEWT. HARVEY EXPECTS BIG PRODUCTION AT NEW SAND

The Haliburton Cement Co. are to commence right away on cementing in the casing on the top of the new sand which was picked up at the Fabyan Pete well, at Fabyan. This casing has now all been run and the hole reamed to the oil sands which it is figured are of great thickness. The sand was corer for a depth of fifteen feet, and the barrel brought up samples of the best saturation seen in the field; the oil being of a lighter gravity than hitherto secured.

It is intended, as soon as the cement job is ready (about ten days to two weeks) to bring the well into production, and for this purpose men are busy laying a pipe line and building storage tanks to take care of the product there.

The Fabyan Pete Co., with Mr. R. E. Williams as managing director have entered into some four or five agreements for drilling rights upon their 14,000 acres of oil rights and Mr. A. B. Palmer, of Vancouver, who was here last week, has completed a deal whereby his company, the Palmer Petroleum, will commence to drill on some of these leases in the near future. Both Mr. Williams and Mr. Palmer left for the coast to make arrangements to this end.

A very heavy gas measure was encountered last Thursday, this was successfully headed off, and Mr. Newt. Harvey the head driller fully expects to bring in one of the best wells in the district when the cement is finally drilled through.

REPORT NEW GRADES WILL BE REQUESTED

INSPECTION AND HANDLING OF WHEAT MAY BE REVISED

WINNIPEG — Recommendations of certain far-reaching changes in connection with the grading and marketing of wheat will be embodied in the report of the Saskatchewan grain commission which recently conducted its hearings according to Chief Justice J. T. Brown, of Regina chairmen of the commission.

It is understood that the establishment of new grades will be recommended and several changes in the grading regulations. Imposition of wheat may come in for fairly drastic changes and handling of wheat at the elevators both country and terminal be made the subject of revision. The report may indicate that regulations governing the handling of the grain at the port of Montreal are deficient and suggest how they might be improved.

WAINWRIGHT OIL FIELD IS BETTER THAN BELEIVED, SAYS REPT.

Three derogatory criticisms of the Wainwright oil field in Alberta, first that the Wainwright oil is "no good" second that the water troubles there hinder operations and third and most vital that production possibilities are poor in that area are refuted by investigation of the three changes the "Financial Counsel" of Montreal stated in a current report.

The statement that the oil produced from the Wainwright structure is no good for commercial purposes is completely at variance with the findings made from tests conducted by the Universal Oil Products Company owners of the famous Dobb's process of cracking, made a couple of years ago and published by the Scientific and Industrial Research Council of Alberta in March 1927. On page 9 of this report the Universal Oil Products Company is quoted as saying of the Wainwright crude oil it had tested "that the cracked gasoline has very high anti-knock properties, being equivalent to the cracked gasoline from our Smackover crude in that respect."

Great Anti-Knock Qualities
"This cracked gasoline is the equivalent in anti-knock properties of any gasoline which is now being produced commercially in any part of the world. Stated in terms of a Mid-Continent gasoline and benzol mixture the cracked gasoline from the Wainwright crude is equal to a Mid-Continent straight run gasoline, containing in a mixture therewith, 28 per cent of commercial benzol."

With regard to the statement that water does not allow the successful operation of oil wells in the Wainwright field the same report stated: "The question of water and mineral matter in the oil will not affect the commercial cracking to any extent which would prevent consideration of cracking." The Dobb's process is of gas handling charging stocks containing several per cent of water.

Several Producers There
The Wainwright field has already four small producers of crude oil and several gas wells. The Wainwright Oil Company has brought in three oil wells and a gas well. No. 1 well is not producing at present as it is understood to be shut off during deepening operations. No. 4 well is producing on pump and water is successfully being shut off. Admiral Oils Limited are drilling a well as an offset to Wainwright No. 4 using the Haliburton process of pressure cementing to success fully shut off water this being the first time this particular process has been used in the Wainwright field. Okato, Peninsular and Daugherty Petroleum companies have recently completed financing for an extensive drilling programme in Wainwright. There are at least a dozen new operators under way and probably twice as many preparing to start.

The marketing problem is now well taken care of by the completion of the Associated Refineries Limited with a capacity of about 20 barrels an hour. Wainwright Oils also owns a refinery with a capacity of approximately 10 barrels an hour. A very great deal of valuable work is being done in the Wainwright field today and its future seems at the present time to be more hopeful than at any time in the past. Financial Counsel stated.

Mr. Chas. Hutchison, who was spending his holidays with friends at Camrose has now returned.

CANADIAN WILD LIFE SHIPPED TO IRELAND

Noah's Ark on a small scale passed through Montreal recently in the form of a shipment of Canadian wild life from the way from Toronto to the Zoological Gardens at Dublin Ireland. The special shipment was handled by the Canadian National Express the crates being transferred from Bonaventure Station to the St. Lord Antrim, which carried bird and beast to the Irish Free State. The consignment consisted of two bears, one eagle, two woodchucks, two raccoons and four prairie dogs.

C.N.R. COMMENCE ERECTION OF DEPOT

NEW BUILDING TO BE FULLY MODERN OF CONCRETE AND STUCCO

After a wait of many months—indeed the old building was destroyed last November—the Canadian National Railways have decided to erect a new depot at Wainwright which will be fully in keeping with others in larger centers.

Last week and saw the start made with the big steam shovel on the digging of the basement, etc., for a structure which will cover an area of something like 45 feet by 150 feet and be of two stories. This will house all the usual depot staff as well as the station restaurant and also provide space for the express and baggage rooms.

Both men's and women's waiting rooms and toilet accommodation are provided for, and these will be fully modern with connections to a sanitary system which is to be constructed in conjunction at the south of the roundhouses across the yards.

Steam heating as before will be provided from the roundhouse, and the whole structure will be such a one as Wainwright may well feel proud of. Mr. Charlie Tredger, one of Wainwright's old-timers is in charge of the work, and it is hoped to have the building ready for occupation within a couple of months.

LLOYDMINSTER HAS BIG CONFLAGRATION

MONDAY MORNING SAW SASK. TOWN MENACED BY FIRE FIEND

Early on Monday morning last, the Saskatchewan portion of the town of Lloydminster experienced in some degree a repetition of the big fire here when a couple of complete blocks of substantial buildings were destroyed completely with the exception of the Royal Bank building.

In the conflagration some 47 business premises were a prey to the flames, included among these being two big hotels, the big brick post office, and all lines of business, as well as the wheat pool elevator.

Conquer regrets that Edgerton local has disbanded. Community singing was enjoyed during the afternoon. Mrs. Short the District Director gave a very interesting address and gave an outline of the work to be taken up by the various branches of standing committees. Mrs. Short also spoke on the rearing of children. Children are just what we make them. They imitate us more what we do than what we tell them should be done. Observe the law and be what we expect our children to be. Encourage teachers, the children they play with, where they go, etc. Expect obedience, give few well thought out commands and see they are carried out. Do not scare children into obedience. Be consistent. Consider promises and keep them. Truthfulness. Don't punish children when they voluntarily come and tell you the truth about accidents etc., but reason with them. On the other hand don't promise they will never be punished if they tell the truth. Courtesy, manner and kindness. Tables manners correct one at a time. Teach kindness to everyone, especially to older people. Do not shield children from responsibility, teach children the value of money and how to spend it. Give them a certain amount of tasks. Do not do anything for them that they can do themselves. Teach them to be unselfish and respect other people's property. Instill in children the love for good reading and good pictures and to see the beauty in nature. Do not scold or nag, a pleasing voice suggests culture and refinement. Do not see faults but praise virtues and help them to get the most out of life.

GRAIN CUTTING HAS
NOW STARTED HERE
YIELD WILL BE ERRATIC; BUT POSSIBLY LESS THAN
FIRST FIGURED

A drive around the district to view the standing crops is almost disheartening experience these days, for in many instances the returns will be less than was first figured upon.

True, in one or two instances, the crop is of about the usual return for the particular land seen, but in most cases, the crop is likely to give a poor return than had at first been hoped.

Some of the fields seen, where it was confidently expected that a possibly ten bushels per acre would be reaped, will hardly return three bushels per acre. One farmer when interviewed stated that he had hoped for at least ten bushels but that his threshing had returned him only a little over two bushels per acre, and that in spite of several low places which had seemed to be promising a bunch of good grain.

The oat crop with a very short straw will likely profit a little from the late rains, although nothing like the usual returns for the Wainwright district will be reaped for 1929.

Hay, too, is likely to be a scarce commodity this year, and several farmers are turning their stock into the grain fields to conserve their hay for winter feeding.

The gardens, too, are nearly all miserably stunted, with the corn, and that potatoes are likely to be a real luxury before winter sets in. They now look so unpromising that most farmers are refusing to dig any till the latest moment, to thus give the mealy ones every chance possible to obtain tall, you the truth about accidents etc., but reason with them. On the other hand don't promise they will never be punished if they tell the truth. Courtesy, manner and kindness. Tables manners correct one at a time. Teach kindness to everyone, especially to older people. Do not shield children from responsibility, teach children the value of money and how to spend it. Give them a certain amount of tasks. Do not do anything for them that they can do themselves. Teach them to be unselfish and respect other people's property. Instill in children the love for good reading and good pictures and to see the beauty in nature. Do not scold or nag, a pleasing voice suggests culture and refinement. Do not see faults but praise virtues and help them to get the most out of life.

ON most farms the money from the poultry, the dairy or the garden, belongs to the farmer's wife, but unless she has a bank account the money soon goes.

Every farmer's wife should have a bank account; there are so many things to save for—things for the home—a holiday trip—or the proverbial rainy day.

A few hundred dollars in the bank will give you a wonderful feeling of security and independence.

President of The Crime Club

(Continued from page two) that maybe this was the latest way for a swell dame to carry her escort, but this as far as I got with my speculation, for right then the brakes jammed on and we came to a quick stop.

She stuck her head out the window, and I heard her say, "What in the world have we done now Officer?" He evidently knew her, cause he laughs. "Not a thing this time, Miss Ramsey. There's been a little trouble round here, and we're just looking over the outgoing cars." And then he adds, "You got your boy friend with you."

My muscles were taut for a springing and another fight, though I knew it wouldn't probably do us good to resist, when this moll up and hands me a surprise.

"No I'm all alone," says she, sweetly, "except for Harmon, my chauffeur. Do tell me what's happened," she urges. "I'm not in a bit of a hurry."

"Never mind," says he, anxious to be rid of her, "you just go on home, and don't trouble your pretty head."

After we'd gone on a ways, and I was certain we were out the danger zone, so I didn't care much if she did find out she'd got the wrong pig by the ear. I raised up and took the seat beside her. But even then she don't scream, nor give any sign she's astonished.

"Hadm't we better stay hidden till we get to the house, Mr. Peters?" is what she brings out, and I see she don't know this Peters any more. I did. The gink had done me a good turn by not showing up, however, and it seemed only right for me to help him a little in return. And, besides I was just dying of curiosity.

"That was a clever stunt you pulled off at the hall," she rattles. "Had you been waiting long? I suppose you thought it best not to have even the doorman see you, especially before you knew any of us, or understood why we had sent for you."

I let her go along hoping she'd spill something useful after a while. "None of the others believed you'd answer the ad at all. I was the only one who had faith in your coming."

She acted so businesslike that I couldn't think she was trying to yamp me and being a cautious guy, I just kept on being still.

"As we started with our being so bored. You don't know how we long for thrills, and adventures! Then Lil's my side kick, and such a trump thought of us starting a crime club."

"Are you all ladies?" I ventured to ask.

"Oh, no, three of us are men, but we're all inexperienced, and don't know how to go to work—and I had the idea of asking you to come and be our president, anyway until we have had some real practice. We want you to show us how you do all those wonderful crimes of yours, be our teacher sort of."

"I ain't never heard that teaching was very paying work," I says.

"Oh, we mean to do the right thing by you, Mr. Peters. We wouldn't have invited you to come all the way from Chicago unless we meant to make it worth your while. We're all rich."

"Rich!" I exclaim. "Then what the devil do you want to start a crime club for?"

"Just for the fun and excitement

I told you we were all bored sick just to be playing around. Of course, we've all read of your wonderful hold-ups, and robberies, and here she gives us a breathless gasp before she brings it out, "and murders!" and we thought if only we could get you to leave Chicago and come to Buffalo to help us."

Well I let her rattle on. I knew now who she thought I was. Bull Peters, one of the worst of the Chicago gangsters! She wasn't the only one who'd been reading of his going on; he was just another of those rotten brats what gives all of us crooks, no matter how hard we try to be decent such a bad name; he was always meeting up somebody, killing folks without no real good, first-class excuse, and he wasn't thought nothing of by us professional in general. An A No. 1 hard-workin', respectable burglar like me, for instance always tries to keep his name outta the papers, while the sparkers I had in me, my person, so while she's giving the chauffeur some orders about next day, I emptied my pockets out on the ground, and stepped the swag down into the dirt by the walk, makin' a mark to spot the place by scrapping my foot across the stones, and also lining it up with a couple of trees.

We turned in now at a driveway, and up to a fine big palace of a house. I wasn't going to cart all the sparkers I had in me, my person, so while she's giving the chauffeur some orders about next day, I emptied my pockets out on the ground, and stepped the swag down into the dirt by the walk, makin' a mark to spot the place by scrapping my foot across the stones, and also lining it up with a couple of trees.

She opened the door with a key; the servants, I guess, had all been let go to bed, for which I was really glad. Next she led me through several big rooms, very elegant, and I took note of a lot of little things I might like to collect on my way out and on up to a closed door. Here she gives three short, quick taps, and followed them by three slow heavier ones, tap-tap-tap—dum—dum—dum. I had to grin; of course these kids would have a lot of signals and tap-trap.

It was opened then by a jaded woman, so young that I had to look twice to make sure she had long pinto on, and inside, sitting round a table, was three other boys, only one of 'em proved, on second glance, to be another girl. Her head would fool anybody, smooth and slick, you know, and plastered down flat, but while they was all dressed, she didn't have on scarcely nothing that showed above the table. I was kinda curious to get round behind her, or peek under the table, only just then the moll who'd brought me out, slips off her party coat, and right away I see she's kinda more worth eying.

"This is MR. BULL PETERS!" she announced. A wave of something near fear and awe went over their faces, but it was sorta unfriendly to me to see how quick they recovered, even lookin' a bit disappointed, I thought. I stood there squintin' my eyes, and tryin' my best to look tough enough to suit 'em, but, chucks, I soon see it can't no use. Even Bull himself would sit of me up to what they was hopin' for!

They added a couple of chairs, and it wasn't no time before we got down to business, starting the meeting with some elegant booze, and some of the smallest sandwiches I'd ever seen, and which was filled with something what looked like B. B. shot and had been considerable over salted, but which wasn't so bad when you got used to 'em, and had plenty to wash 'em down with.

"What do you men and women want to do?" I asks and you could see 'em swell up over my way of addressing them. Their total sum of years would hardly have reached a hundred. What'll you have house robberies hold-ups a good classy murder or what?"

"My Mr. Peters" gasps out the little black-haired short they called Lil. "how many men have you killed?"

"Well" I says "I began keeping track of notchin' my gat till it got so's I couldn't see straight and then I used a yardstick and later I borrowed a clothes pole but shucks now I'm just cutting 'em in on the city flag staff."

"Don't be silly Lil!" a boy named Ricky speaks up. "Bull isn't going to tell us! Are you crazy?"

"My idea" sticks in another frowning down our nonsense, "would be to start in easy at housebreaking and work up to some really worth while crime after we have had a bit of practice with Bull here to show us." This met with general approval only showing how green they were for they'd picked about the toughest job of all for an amateur to put across. Any fool can go out with a gun and work a hold up but it takes experience and art to get away with the other. I could just see myself—the Johnny Ray—who had never risked having a pal even, because I couldn't find nobody I thought was in my high grade class hookin' up with a gang of kids whose fathers at that very moment should be lickin' 'em and putting them to bed.

And that reminds me to ask: Where are your old folks? And how you going to get out nights to do your stuff?

Gosh! You shoulda heard 'em! They fairly yelled at me "We are all grown up—Nobody bothers us!"

Then it came out they was having their meeting at Meg's house on a count her mother and stepmother was in England and it wasn't very different with most of them. Why some had as many as three sets of parents who they took turns at visitin'! It sure made me kinda sorry for the poor young things. It certainly wasn't much like the way I was fetched up with only one pair of old folks and them so loving and careful about me learning me all they could and lettin' me pick their pockets by the hour just for the practice it gives me, and me so gentle and anxious always warning me not to kill nobody and even pa advising against it unless it was really necessary. They was my idea of what parents should be always sickening around learning their kids. I felt sorry for that crowd and I suddenly made up my mind if I could help them a little without no looks why I just would.

I accepted the job of President of the Crime Club right then and there and what was more I wouldn't take no salary for it neither. They were ticked at death when they found I was willing to work on just a commission all being pretty hard up for cash at the moment. Their allowances were paid to them on the first they explained and this was the fifth of the month—it was a long time to pay day.

"I'll get busy tomorrow" I says and hunt up a few good lays then we'll meet here early in the evening and I will explain to each of you what to do. You better divide instead of going together—say in three groups so as I won't have to go alone. But the akirts wouldn't hear of that. They were afraid if they went with the boys they wouldn't get enough credit and it was finally decided that I was to find five different cribs one for each and then the one who did the best not getting caught and fetching home the most swag was to be rewarded by being made vice-President. It was the first time I'd heard that being made vice-President was considered much of a reward by anybody but I let it go at that and didn't argue.

Meg gave me a room right there at the house and next morning I got acquainted with the dogs and servants. The dogs took me straight off but the servants was kinda cold. I guess they didn't like company on account of the extra work it made for 'em but I wanted them to understand I had a right to be there and was willing to be friendly. The whole afternoon was taken up replantin' the stuff I'd stolen from the jeweler's window and hunting up the best crib I could find in town so when the club came to order as they called it I was ready for them.

I took them one at a time into another room gave them their instructions and kept it all nice and secret and mysterious as I could for them. They was quiverin' with excitement and each wonderin' what the morning papers would have in about the wholesale robberies of that night. The girls had put on boys clothes and it was a comfort to feel that for once anyways they wasn't in danger of pneumonia. The very first thing I did just as they were starting out was to hand them each the guns I'd got for them that day and to warn them no to kill for pleasure or unless it was real necessary. I'd spiked the gates anyways and loaded them with blanks but the advice didn't cost me nothing and might do some good coming from 'such a killer as they thought I was.

After they was gone I had the house to myself and didn't waste no time! And to make perfectly sure of it being safe I got it all out the house and stowed in one of Meg's cars which I drove over on a side street and left parked. How those

THE FORD CAR SHATTERPROOF GLASS WINDSHIELD

Protection with Clear Vision

THE shatterproof glass windshield on all Ford cars is one of many important safety features that contribute to the pleasure and comfort of all Ford Model "A" owners. The peace of mind and feeling of security made possible by this factor of safety is further enhanced by the clear vision roof pillars, six-brake system, $\frac{1}{4}$ irreversible steering, one piece gas tank and all-steel body.

The Ford car shatterproof glass windshield does not splinter under the impetus of a direct blow. In case of a collision there is no flying glass to endanger driver or passengers.

The vision is clear and unobstructed with the Ford shatterproof glass windshield. At the same time the driver realizes that this windshield is a protection and a factor in creating driving confidence and owner enthusiasm.

COVERS HISTORICFUR TRADE ROUTE

With a specialty constructed canoe "Curly" Phillips well known guide of Jasper National Park, is taking a party of five Americans from the east on a thirteen hundred mile trip through the waterways of the north country, commencing at Summit Lake behind Prince George B.C., and finishing at Wainwright, Alberta, on the Athabasca River. The party will cover the historic route of the fur traders by which many of the early travellers into Western Canada during the first half of the last century, reached the Pacific Ocean.

WHEAT CUTTING IS NOW GENERAL

FODDER CROPS IN DISTRICT IS GREATLY HELPED BY COOLER WEATHER

The Bank of Montreal crop report says that crops in the Prairie Provinces have matured rapidly and wheat cutting is now general, with a fair yield from summerfallow and breaking but other crops poor. Conditions generally are ideal for harvesting. In Quebec Province conditions continue favourable with prospects for a good average crop. In Ontario harvesting operations are proceeding satisfactorily with favourable weather conditions. In the Maritime Provinces a hay crop estimated at 25 per cent below has been harvested in excellent condition. In British Columbia but dry weather prevails and rain is badly needed.

Alberta, Western Area: In the north conditions remain favourable and fair crops are expected. In the centre rain and cooler weather will help fodder crops and all wheat on summerfallow and breaking from which fair to small yields are expected. Sugar beets and hay on irrigated land continue satisfactory.

North eastern Area: Cooler weather and rain will produce some green feed and help alfalfa on summerfallow and breaking from which a small yield is expected. Other crops are failures.

Southeastern Area: Threshing has commenced, with first returns showing yields of twelve bushels downwards off summerfallow and breaking. Other crops are failures.

Southern Area: Crops on summerfallow appear to have withstood prolonged drought fairly well, and approximately a half crop is expected on well tilled lands.

(319) The biggest shipment of live muskrats ever to be shipped from Canada, a thousand in number, were carried by Canadian Pacific Express Company from Oak Lake, Manitoba to Hamburg, Germany, recently. They were trapped in the bogging grounds on the Manitoba rat farm and shipped in boxes, each box holding twelve pairs. They were shipped on C. P. Freighter Beaverford from Montreal and the muskrats were in good condition with a minimum of casualties when they reached destination.

The Royal York Hotel, Toronto, largest hotel and highest building in the British Empire, will be opened by His Excellency the Governor-General, June 11. The following day will be reception day for guests and the hotel is booked to capacity. The whole water front of Toronto is rapidly re-building that of New York with the buildings of immense structures of which this is the outstanding.

On the authority of an official report recently issued, it appears that the bicycle is gaining in popularity in Canada. In 1928 production of bicycles in Canada reached a new record with the selling value of products 52 per cent higher than in 1927. Last year 27,599 wheels were sold valued at $399,480.

Within the next few weeks the largest re-forestation venture so far made by the Ontario Government will be under way in the planting of 1,200,000 trees in the Thessalon district near the Soo. This is to be largely experimental and as a guide to schemes under contemplation for the future in different parts of Ontario.

W. E. Wilford will assume the title of purchasing agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, Toronto, according to an announcement recently given out by B. W. Roberts, general purchasing agent of the railway. Mr. Wilford will have most of the work in connection with the Royal York Hotel purchases. He joined the company as a clerk in the purchasing department in 1908.

OIL FOR THE EMPIRE

The remarkable development of the Turner Valley oil field in the past year has obscured to a certain extent the successful activities being carried on in other Alberta oil districts. Side by side with the increasing production in the premier field, gas and oil are being located in several other sections of the province. Enough oil and gas bearing structures have been proven to demonstrate that these natural resources exist in large quantities in many parts of the province. From the international boundary through to Fort Norman in the far north oil has been found and it is a reasonable belief that within a few years Alberta will be one of the greatest oil producing areas in the world.

Among the productive districts already established are Hibernia and Wainwright. In the former the Meridian well is producing some 100 barrels per day of heavy crude oil. In the Wainwright district several wells are producing and drilling is active. Several wells have struck oil in the Peace river country and the tar sands at Fort McMurray are known to be heavily impregnated with oil. The attention of the entire continent and Great Britain is focussed on the drilling operations in this province.

Outside capital is pouring in for at least skepticism has given way to confidence that Alberta is destined to become a great oil producer.

Be not afraid to pray—to pray is right. But if for any wish thou dar'st not pray. Then pray to God to cast that wish away.

DRIVERS MUST HAVE LICENSES

A police drive has been inaugurated against motorists who have failed to take out a driver's license as required by law. It is estimated that twenty-five per cent of drivers have not done so. Little sympathy will be extended to negligent or defiant drivers who are fined for being without a license. Ample notice has been given to these offenders. The police have been lenient in dealing with them and the period of reasonable forbearance is past, says the Calgary Herald.

A few stiff fines would go far to remind indifferent individuals that the possession of a driver's permit is strictly necessary. And it seems pertinent to point out that one license is not enough for an entire family. All members of a family who drive a car must take out an individual license. If the police demand that every person in charge of an automobile should be a serious attempt to enforce the law. They should play no favorite for the law is meant not only as a protection for pedestrians but for experienced and conscientious drivers as well. It aims to eliminate the incompetent or reckless motorist.

Courage, combined with wit, energy and perseverance, will overcome difficulties apparently insurmountable.

NOTICE

THRESHINGMEN & FARMERS

Every farmer knows that the threshing machine is responsible to a great extent in the spread of weeds most threshingmen are careful in sweeping off their machines and racks, but a few have the old excuse of "No Time" This fall owing to short crops there should be ample time to clean up and no one need have that excuse.

Machines and racks must be clean according to Sec. 19 of the Weed Act, and any farmer having trouble in this respect should notify the municipal weed inspector and the necessary action will be taken.

Sec. 18: Every thresher who takes or causes to be taken any machine wagons and racks or any of them over or across any land forming part of an occupied or cultivated farm without having first obtained the permission of the occupier thereof, shall be guilty of an offence punishable on summary conviction by a fine of not less than twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and not more than one hundred dollars ($100.00) and costs.

Sec. 19: Every thresher shall clean his machine both inside and out and all his wagons and racks immediately after threshing and before removing any such article to another farm.

Sec. 20: (1) Every thresher shall clean the grain threshed by him and when delivered to the owner it shall not contain not more than one hundred seeds of noxious weeds other than wild oats to every thousand of grain and all screenings containing seeds of noxious weeds shall either be destroyed by the owner within five days after the grain is threshed or be stored in a granary or other tightly sealed building or be removed in accordance with subsection (2).

(2) If it is desired to move the screenings from one part of the farm to another, it shall be sufficient to remove the same in wheat tight or floor tight wagon boxes but of the screenings must be removed from the farm they must be removed in closely woven and securely tied sacks.

Sec. 21: Every thresher shall display in a prominent place upon his machine a card containing this and the two next preceding sections which card shall be furnished free up application to the department.

Sec. 22: No person shall move or cause to be moved any settler effects; to any point in the province until all noxious weed seeds adhering to and being in or upon the same (if any) have been carefully removed and a statutory declaration to the effect that this section has been complied with, has been forwarded to the Minister.

Sec. 23: No person shall move or cause to be moved any machinery, other than a threshing machine or combine across or upon any public highway until the noxious weed seeds adhering to, or being in or upon the same (if any) have been carefully removed.

Violation of any provision of this Act for which no penalty is provided shall be an offence and the offender shall on summary conviction thereof be liable to a penalty of not less than five dollars and costs and not more than fifty dollars and costs.

A. A. TISDALE, Who was appointed General Manager of the Western Region of the Canadian National Railways on August 1st.

TOLERANCE

ADD NEW EXPORT TO CANADA'S LIST

A new product has been added to the exports of Canada to Britain and Germany in the shape of fresh Gaspé salmon. A few weeks ago a trial shipment of fresh salmon, frozen by a new brine solution leaving the fish as fresh as when it was taken out of its native waters, was sent to British and German fish dealers, who were so pleased with the result, that an order for 25 tons soon followed. Many more orders are expected.

PLAN FULL NATION WIDE BROADCASTS BY CANADIAN NAT. RAILWAYS

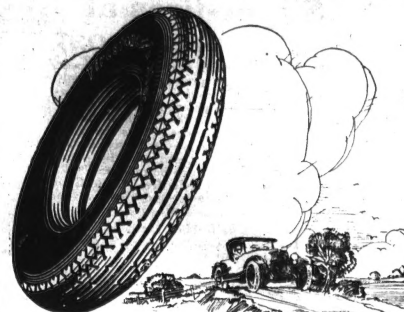

MONTREAL—"That the next 12 months will see the greatest advance in broadcasting in Canada that has ever taken place since the commencement of the art a few years ago" is the prediction of W. D. Robb, Vice-President, Canadian National Railways, in whose department radio is included. "Two major factors will bring this about" continued Mr. Robb. "The extension of regular weekly schedule of network broadcasting on a national scale and a marked improvement in programmes generally and especially by providing more opportunity for Canadians to hear outstanding talent from their own country."

"I can only speak for the Canadian National Railways but as the nation's greatest broadcaster, now operating thirteen stations and owning the only system of wires adapted for broadcasting under one direction, stretching from Coast to Coast, we are planning to institute marked improvements ourselves and to co-operate in every way possible to assist other broadcasters in doing similarly. Commencing in October we are planning to extend our National Networks three times weekly from the Maritime to the Rocky Mountains and once or twice from Atlantic to Pacific.

"These regular weekly national broadcasts should go far to create a better mutual understanding among the provinces, unite more closely the many elements and interests within our country and remove the feeling of isolation felt in not a few communities."

POLICE WARN DRIVERS: 60,000 MOTORISTS ARE UNLICENSED

EDMONTON—Motorists who have neglected thus far to secure drivers' licenses are likely to be checked up almost any day now and asked to explain why. Police throughout the province are proceeding to make a survey of the situation, government authorities being of the opinion that sufficient time has now been given for the automobiling public, and particularly town and city people to get their licenses. Some convictions in the near future are not improbable. To date 110,198 drivers' licenses have been issued.

IT'S BETTER BECAUSE IT'S CANADIAN

VALUE OF A PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

By Dr. Gordon Bates
General Secretary, Canadian Social Hygiene Council

"Why should my taxes be spent in maintaining an expensive department of health?"

One occasionally hears that complaint, even nowadays. There are still a few people who point out that a department of health does not produce anything and therefore, they suggest does not justify its existence.

But does anybody claim that we could get along without a police force despite the fact that it doesn't produce anything either? And the life-guard at a summer resort. He isn't a producer, yet if he saves half a dozen lives during a summer we deem him well worthy of his hire.

During the year 1928, 1933 lives were saved by the Medical Health Department of the City of Toronto. I quote figures because they are readily available. Hamilton, Ontario, furnishes quite as good an example. Nearly two thousand people, at least, in all walks of life. Enough to populate a whole village. Here is how that figure is arrived at.

In 1910, when Toronto began to spend a good deal of money to protect its health, there were 15.1 deaths every year, for each thousand people. In 1928, only 11.8 died out of every thousand. Working that out in terms of Toronto's many thousand population a district saving of 1933 lives is shown. And even that figure mark you, is not fair to the department, which is actually saving many more lives than that every year.

That figure is based upon the improvement in the department since 1910—not upon the difference between the death-rate of 1928 and the death-rate as it would have been if Toronto had no department at all.

And what is responsible for this? How does the department operate to save all these lives?

First of all, the water supply is safeguarded against all waterborne diseases: typhoid, dysentery, diarrhoea, etc. Today Toronto's death-rate from typhoid is 9, while that of rural Ontario is 6.43.

Then milk. A veritable plague of milk is poured into Toronto every day and all of it excepting less than one half of one-percent is pasteurized. The result is that bovine tuberculosis—tuberculosis of bone and gland—is virtually eliminated from Toronto and septic sore throat and all other communicable diseases are reduced. Everyone is familiar with the ordinary routine of a health department: the checking-up of communicable diseases, quarantining, etc.

But there is another branch of this work, and possibly the most important of all, that is not so generally appreciated. And that is the saving of infants and school children. This begins with the expectant mother. She is being taught the importance of pre-natal care. She is urged to see her doctor frequently before the birth of her child, or to regularly attend clinics maintained for her health and safety. Public health nurses call upon her, and tactfully stress the importance of doing so.

Two weeks after the birth of the child, the nurse again calls, the mother is directed to "well-baby" centres where her child is examined, weighed, any defects noted and the mother referred to her doctor to have these remedied.

The newest development in this science of child-saving is the pre-school age clinic for the physical examination of children before they start to school.

All during the school life of the child regular physical examinations are provided for it health educational material is sent to parents teeth are carefully examined, and hygiene education thoroughly and systematically carried on by the teacher.

All of these things contribute to the saving of many more than 1933 lives in Toronto last year, as well as to the preventing of untold sickleas, misery, and economic waste—and all of these things point clearly to one inescapable fact: and that effectiveness of any public health department, and the number of lives and the sickness and the economic wastage that it will save any community depend entirely upon the amount of money spent upon it, and carefully expended by it, under the direction of competent public health officials.

A certain injustice is indicated here in big Canadian cities death rates are being reduced through the efforts of public health departments. But rural Canada is not sharing in this march towards social health, to nearly the same degree.

The reason is, that rural Canada has not the money to spend in safeguarding its health, that urban Canada has. In place of the splendid health organization serving Toronto the work of which I have just roughly outlined the average rural community has to get along with one of fiscal at that—a medical officer of health who is miserably unpaid, even for his part-time work and who can not conceivably do the work that should be done. Provincial departments of health are doing a great and important work to stem the tide of rural disease and premature death but until rural communities are served by small, full-time counterparts of the health departments that are succeeding so well in cities, anything like complete success is impossible.

Experiments with such rural health departments or county health units as they are usually termed have succeeded far beyond expectation in Quebec, British Columbia and Saskatchewan and today one of the largest tasks facing the public health worker in this democratic country is to reduce public opinion to the end that governments, federal, provincial and municipal may be justified in spending public money on the establishment of adequately financed and staffed health county units, over the entire Dominion.

C.P.R. Champion Sheep

Canadian Pacific flock of Suffolk sheep at Tilley, Alta.,—there are 300 of them—have been sweeping the board in western stock exhibitions lately. Against strong competition at the Saskatoon Exhibition they won every first prize and every championship. Also shown in above is the C.P.R. champion Hampshire ram which took first prize in every show in which it was entered. Prize sheep and cattle on the C.P.R. experimental farms in the West are doing a great work in improving stock in the Prairie Provinces.

greenhorns would handle the jobs I'd given them no idea. While I wasn't exactly looking for trouble I planned to be ready if it came. They might turn up with the whole Buffalo police force on their heels.

It was pretty dull waiting and I got nervous long before the first car came back but after that the rest followed along close and by three a.m. they were all in. They were just drunk with triumph! I made them take a drink to steady 'em. And then the great moment had come the time for them to show what they had brought in. They dumped the stuff out on the table taking care not to mix the piles and making me turn my back so as not to see which had brought which because they wanted to be sure I didn't play no favorite. Each one was sure they had the vice presidency clinched and was so interested in their own collection that they didn't pay much attention to the other fellow's only to watch he didn't grab off nothing from them.

I wouldn't hardly dare tell what my estimate on the swag totaled. I sure am some little piker when it comes to lays and the kids had actually done well remarkably well. I just had to compliment them right to their faces. When I'd finished counting up on each stack I'd write what I judged it was worth on a slip of paper and lay it on top and go on to the next and when I'd finished all five they stepped up and got the one that belonged to 'em and we showed the whole mess into the center together.

Lil had the highest score. Of course Lil started an argument the boys thinking a girl wasn't fit for the job but I smoothed that over by telling them that the job of President would be open for them next me being satisfied just with the title of Treasurer. Suddenly one of the Percy boys leans over the swag and calls out: "Why you raked in that Pie-Mew frat pin?" I didn't know you were planning to rob one of my fraternity brothers—I wouldn't stand for it for a moment! And then he lets out a squawk. It's mine. My very own pin. It's got my name—

And that's my set of earrings my ruby ones screams Lil. And my mother's pearls—She left them for me to wear!

Then one of the boys recognized his gold cigarette lighter and another hauls out a key ring an dswat, and somebody else gets his mitts on his mother's gold coffee cups and then all at once it dawns on them what I've pulled. Each one in secret conference with me had thought it a great lark to rob the other never seeming to tumble to the fact that it was just what I'd planned for them all and that while Lil was robbing Algie and Algie was at Ricky's Ricky was collecting everything he could find at Lil's and so on. But they understood now all right and somehow it didn't seem half the joke they expected. I was the only one except Meg who didn't know yet what had happened at home who was enjoying it. Even after I explained that it was the only safe plan I could think of for them they were still sour.

"You see this way I says if any of 'em considered just another of your little pranks especially when it got known that each one of you was tarr'd with the same brush. Then I guess your folks even if they'd started in to get ugly would of been willing to settle outa court and besides your friend's houses were the ones you knew best and could find your way round in the dark at and where you was most apt to know where to look for the swag see?"

That got them uncliffed and they had just decided to pick the stuff over and each take home his own and they was busy clawing and grabbing and trying to identify pieces they didn't know was theirs or not when I thought the time had come to throw in my monkey wrench.

I pulled out my gat. Back up there all of you I cracks out. You seem to of forgotten that I'm learning you on a commission basis. Just stand aside while I take my share.

Gosh you could of heard a pin drop! They was popped with astonishment. Then they all reached for their guns I laughed when the first trigger fell. Even the bank didn't go off—it just gave a little flat click. They began to wake up to how they'd been fooled but I didn't wait for them to get together or for the boys to give me a rush.

"Swat the fly" with GILLET'S LYE

Costs little but always effective

Im Bull Peters I snarled at 'em and I just as soon kill the lot of you as not. My gat ain't spiked remember. And it won't do no good to yell neither. Meg here gave the servants a couple of days off on my advice—So you just get busy and tie each other up. Here's some good heavy cord all ready and cut in handy pieces.

It was Bull Peters' reputation turned the trick. If it hadn't of been for that I expect the boys woulda crowd me some. They was good husky lads all three but Bull's had name and the fact that I threatened to get the girls first kept them in order just as I expected it would. They tied each other and I handled the last guy and furnished the gags. I had a few words to say to them and I did not want to be interrupted I laid them in a neat row not too close together and then I gathered up what I wanted of the swag. There ain't nothing hogish about me so I left everything too bulky to handle easy or stuff too hard to sell but even at that the pick me was fair!

When I had it all packed and was ready to go I gave them a bit of advice. Say Kids I ain't got a word to say against this crime business and if you still want to follow it as a profession after you each get through explaining the little matter to your folks why all I say is don't call in nobody to help you. Just worry along by yourselves learning by experience and a few trips to the pen but let me tell you there ain't as much in it as you think. The competition is getting to keen and besides if you want to be thieves you really couldn't do better than to let your own fathers learn you their trades. I looked you all up you know and found one of you was the son of a fashionable doctor and another has a lawyer for his pa and Lil's dad is a senator and Meg's and Ricky's is on the stock exchange and really there ain't nothing to say in favor of one over another when it comes to robbery but they have all got it over me because they can't be sent to jail for it.

I'm awful glad to of met up with you all but I hope somebody finds you and lets you loose in the morning and while I don't advise it still if you should want me to give you a little help again just put another personal in the Chicago papers and I'll be right on to learn you some more!

I went out the back way and used Meg's car for the first lap of my journey and didn't have a bit of trouble getting down to Niagara Falls where I stayed a while watching the Buffalo papers but not seeing a word about the Crime Club. But about a Bull Peters had been shot up in Chi by a cop who he tried to get first but who was too quick for him. After seeing that I felt pretty comfortable knowing that any pursuit of me would probably be dropped.

My new toothbrush is holding up good and while I ain't had no use yet for that tool for taking stones outa horses test I feel I've got my money's worth outa the corkerew and the gleam with which he is did have to pay cash for 'em.

THE END.

Health Service

CANADIAN
MEDICAL ASSOCIATION
GIVE ALL THE CHILDREN A CHANCE

It is accepted in all civilized countries that every child should be given a chance to develop the physical and mental capacity with which he is born. Some children start out in life with a considerable handicap. If they are born into a poor family, food may be scarce or of questionable quality the home may lack sanitary conveniences, there may be overcrowding lack of play-space, and other additional disadvantages. The children born into a wealthy home may be equally unfortunate, because we often find in the homes of the well-to-do children who are not living healthy lives. This is chiefly the fault of the parents who spoil the child.

The best thing which can happen to any child is to have parents who know something of its training. Love of children and a desire to do the best for them do not take the place of knowledge. We would not think of entrusting the operation of a machine, or the erection of a building or bridge to a man who was merely anxious to run the machine or to build something. We place such duties in the hands of a person who has been trained to do the particular type of work.

Parents do not know by instinct the proper way in which to bring up a child. Some of them do gain knowledge from experience, and some of them are willing and anxious to learn from others. The up-bringing of a child is a serious and at times a difficult matter. If it is to be done properly it requires training and preparation for the task. To the person who feels that our ancestors got along very well and reared families without training we can only say that the number of unhappy individuals the number who have never adjusted themselves to life, the many who find life a burden, the group who are a nuisance to others, to say nothing of the few who have no mental and physical health, are ample proof that the old system was not a success.

Parent Education is a real need; it is not a fad but an evidence of the importance of proper preparation in order to ensure that all children shall be given their chance.

Questions concerning speech addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered by letter. Questions as to diagnosis and treatment will not be answered.

POTATO BUGS HAVE MADE THEIR APPEARANCE

Potato bugs have made themselves unwelcome visitors in the gardens in Viking. On Saturday, Jas. Pickering picked several of these off the potato vines in his garden and said that there were several more doing nicely and thriving in his potato patch. How they got into his patch he has no idea as only local seed potatoes were planted. We note that at Forestburg and in the Peace River country potato bugs have also made an appearance. A determined effort should be made at once to exterminate these bugs before they get a foothold in this province. Many of the early settlers here coming from eastern Canada and United States will remember how they had to gather handfuls of these bugs from the potato vines and when going over the patch once they had to start all over again. The western farmers and gardeners have enough to contend with without having their potatoes go "buggy."
